AN INSTANT TRIUMPH
The Brass Bowl

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

"The plot of 'The Brass Bowl' is a marvel of ingenuity, a maze of incident so complicated that it challenges the reader's curiosity to the utmost. A world of amusing and thrilling adventure lies between the first statement of the problem and its final solution, every step of which is full of tense interest."—Chicago Daily News.

"One of those irresistibly interesting tales that keep the reader in the furor of expectation."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"There are no resting spots in this story of fast and furious action."—Detroit Times.

"For sheer delight bred of mystery, romance and exciting ventures, 'The Brass Bowl' is to be commended."—Newark Call.

THE MIDNIGHT GUEST

Of the three great writers of detective stories, Fred M.
White is the youngest and probably the most original.

We doubt if a better detective

HERE IS A ROMANCE OF A FIGHTER OF THE RIGHT SORT

LANGFORD of the Three Bars

By KATE and VIRGIL D. BOYLES

The San Francisco ARGONAUT hits the nail squarely on the head in these words :

"It is wholesome and inspiring, because it paints for us the pictures of the every-day life that developed whatever we have as a nation of virility and courage."

In the same vein, the Cleveland LEADER says :

"Paul Langford is the right sort. He is cut off the same piece with Folk and Jerome, and other strong men of the day who do things in the face of opposition and public apathy."

Single-handed and against desperate odds, Langford fought a clique of criminals long intrenched against the law, and won. This is the type of man we all like nowadays to know about.

The Trade Can Heartily Recommend This Story

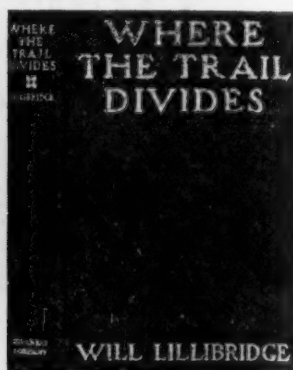

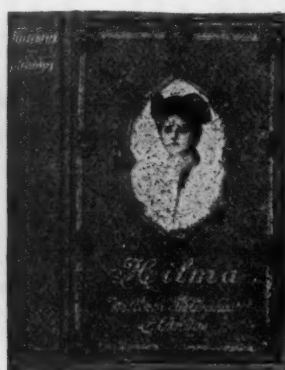

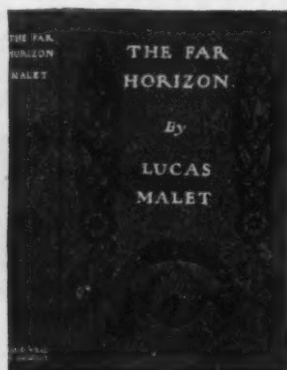

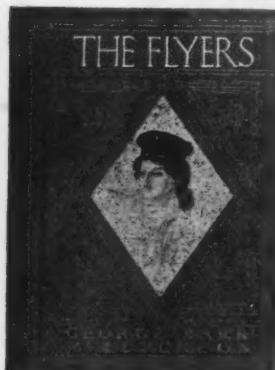

It is already one of the SIX BEST SELLERS

The Wyeth Pictures (four of them, in full colors) are particularly "atmospheric." They, too, are of the "right sort."

The Poster is picturesque and is effective when put conspicuously in the window, or even on the door. We are glad to supply it to the trade everywhere.

NOTES IN SEASON.

DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY offer to supply without additional charge with each order of 25 copies of "Told to the Little Tot," or 25 copies of "Impertinent Poems," or 25 "Chronicles of the Little Tot," 25 copies of an attractive "Teddy Bear," similar to the one reproduced in our advertising pages. The bears will be ready for delivery on October 15, and only a limited number will be distributed.

B. W. DODGE & Co., New York, have just ready the second edition of "Sister Carrie," by Theodore Dreiser, a highly realistic novel of the career of a girl who went to Chicago in the 80's to look for work. Her longings for amusement, leisure and luxuries lead her to accept the patronage of a handsome "drummer." She finally becomes a successful actress. The story is well written, but the author's theories of the demands of Carrie's nature are, to say the least, unconventional. Several well-known critics have highly praised the book on its literary merits.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY have inadvertently made another lucky strike which London publishers have been quick to realize. They are now in keen competition for the English rights of "The End of the Game." While both the author and the publishers deny that the book is based on the notorious Corey case, it is a fact that the reviewers throughout the country have drawn close parallels with it. The London Daily Mail says: "The Corey-Gilman wedding is imparting an enormous stimulus to the sale of the novel 'The End of the Game' published a few weeks since by the author of 'The Lion and the Mouse.' The novelist makes a steel magnate the central figure and describes how suddenly acquired riches deflect his love from his wife and destroy his happiness and character."

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co., Philadelphia, announce a volume entitled "The Real Australia," by A. J. Buchanan, a series of vivid pen pictures of the whole life of the Island Continent; "Shakespeare Studied in Six Parts," ("Othello," "Macbeth," "King John," "Richard II.," "Henry IV.," and "The Merry Wives of Windsor,") by the Hon. Albert S. G. Canning, who expands for the general reader the leading ideas of these dramas; and "Society in the Country House," anecdotal records of six centuries, by T. H. S. Escott, who traces the country house life of English society in its connection with the national movements from the country gentlemen of the 15th century to the hostess of to-day.

WILLIAM A. STURDY has been publishing books for the last twenty years, treating chiefly of democracy, Christian unity, the oppressive character of aristocracy and suggestive remedies for existing social and political disturbances. Various printers have brought out these books. The author has now gathered them under his own imprint. Among the more important are: "Shaking the Apple Tree," an autobiography written under the name of Isaac Didwin in 1886; "Right and Wrong," relating to literal ethics and a popular form of government, published in 1891; "The Open Door," written to refute the claim that every door of polite society would be closed to anyone who persisted in the defence of democracy, published in 1905; and "The Degeneracy of Aristocracy," now issued for the first time and reviewed elsewhere in this issue. The Rhode Island News Company, Providence, R. I., will supply the trade with these books.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Adami, J. G.; M.D. Inflammation: an introduction to the study of pathology. N. Y., Macmillan, 1907. c. 16+240 p. il. 8°, cl., *$1.60 net.

A revised and enlarged reprint of an article in Allbutt's "System of medicine," by Dr. Adami, who is professor of pathology in McGill University, Montreal. The author believes that a knowledge of the inflammatory process is the foundation of all pathology; and has here brought together all the data known to him bearing upon the subject, including some very recent, such as a description of Sir A. E. Wright's brilliant researches upon opsonins, and Prof. Bier's treatment of inflammation by induced hyperæmia.

Adams, Andy. Reed Anthony, cowman: an autobiography. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1907. c. 384 p. front. D. cl., †$1.50.

The author of "The log of a cowboy" again draws upon his eventful life for his material for a new story. It tells of the cattleman's business in a larger sense—the buying and selling and breeding, the moving of the herds, the taking up of the land for ranges, the organization of stock companies to carry on the business on a large scale, the political wire-pulling at Washington in connection with government contracts, the expulsion of the cattle from the Cherokee Strip by the order of the President, with the attendant suffering and loss of life, and finally, the bursting of the bubble and the passing away of the old-time methods.

Adams, Jos. H. Harper's outdoor book for boys; with contributions by Kirk Munroe, Tappan Adney, Capt. Howard Patterson, Leroy Milton Yale, and others; with many il. N. Y., Harper, 1907. c. 12+381 p. diags., D. (Harper's practical books for boys.) cl., $1.75.

The object is to show boys how to do accurately things which are quite within their powers, and things also which will be a satisfaction when they are done. Contents: Back-yard pleasures; Pet shelters; Summer-houses and pergolas; Weather-vanes and wind-mills; Aerial toys; Coasters, skees and snowshoes; Sail-making and snowball artillery; Kites and aeroplanes; Fishing-tackle; Land-yachts; Water-wheels; Boats; Catamarans; Ice boats; House-boats and rafts; Camps and camping; Traps and trapping, etc.

Aldrich, Fred Davis, and Foster, Irving Ly-sander. Elementary French: the essentials of French grammar, with exercises. Bost., Ginn, [1907.] c. 22+329 p. D. cl., $1.

Mr. Aldrich is master in modern languages in Worcester Academy, and Mr. Foster professor of romance languages in the Pennsylvania State College. An outgrowth of "Foundations of French" by the same authors. The scope and the general arrangement of the earlier volume, which has met with such general approval, have been retained, such incidental changes in the text being made as classroom use has suggested. The important new features consist in the addition of French-English exercises, the extension of the English-French work along the lines of simplicity and variety, and the insertion of complete vocabularies.

Bourchier, Dr. Helen. Darry's awakening; with original il. by J. Gillingham. N. Y., Frederick Warne & Co., 1907. 6+299 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Darry, a young English girl, grows up in an old rectory under the severe tutelage of two maiden aunts. She has always known that a mystery was connected with her parents, but it is not until her eighteenth year that it is partly explained, when her father comes to England from India and carries her back with him to the little town of Ramnad, where he holds an official position under the English government. Darry and her father never learn to know each other, and out of this lack of confidence spring the unusual incidents that bring about the awakening of her heart and conscience.

Browning, Oscar. The fall of Napoleon; with numerous il. N. Y., John Lane Co., (The Bodley Head,) 1907. 8+327 p. pors. O. cl., *$5 net.

A personal history of Napoleon between the years 1813 and 1815; the author does not claim to bring to light new facts, but to summarize the results of other people's researches. The chief value of the work lies in the fact that it gives for the first time in English a view of Napoleon's character and conduct, largely founded upon the work of Albert Sorel, rather different from that generally accepted in England. Bibliography of works consulted (3 p.). Index.

"In making Bartholomé Estéban Murillo the subject of an early volume of the new Spanish Series I was influenced by two principal considerations. The art of the painter of the conceptions, and of the even more widely-known beggar boys, has been exhaustively treated in nearly every European language; but in the English, I am not acquainted with any popular and unpretentious biography and guide to the works of Murillo on the lines of this little book."—Author's Preface.

The Prado, the celebrated art gallery of Madrid, has often been called a congress of masterpieces, rather than a treasure-house for the art of the world—such, for instance, as the Louvre or the National Gallery. It is rich mostly in examples of Spanish art from the sixteenth century to modern times. There are, however, many pictures representative of the Italian school by Raphael, Titian, Correggio and others. Also works of the early Flemish painters, and of Rubens, Van Dyck, etc.

Author is a member of the Council of the American Society for Scientific Research, and member of the Society for Psychical Research, London. He believes that spiritual phenomena do occasionally occur, but he is anxious to expose the fraud connected with the subject in the hope of reaching the genuine phenomena which are to be scientifically studied. He divides his material sharply into two divisions: Part 1, The fraudulent; pt. 2, The genuine. Sleight-of-hand is elaborately treated. A clear summing up of his expositions in both parts follows. Author contends that Shakespeare's Sonnets form the missing play of "Love's labor's won," mentioned by Francis Meres in 1598. Mr. Davis transposes the Sonnets so as to form a masque with Mother Earth, Father Time, Wonder, Reason, Grace etc., as the personages. Further, he attempts to show that this masque reveals Robert Devereux, the second Earl of Essex, as the author of all the works attributed to Shakespeare. To prove his point the author by a complicated analysis connects "The phoenix and the turtle," Shakespeare's poem contributed to Robert Devereux's "Love's martyr; or, Rosalin's complaint," with the Sonnets. Full text of the masque, the "Phoenix" and "Leycester's commonwealth" are given; also much contemporaneous and recent criticism; and there are three appendices—"Love's martyr," Bacon's declaration, and Bacon's apology.

- Fogazzaro, Antonio. The woman, (Malombra;) tr. from the Italian by Thorold Dickson. Phil., Lippincott, 1907. 7+501 p. D. cl., †$1.50.
The author of "The patriot," "The sinner," and "The saint" makes a psychological study of a wholly undisciplined, educated Italian woman of twenty-five. After the death of her father she comes to live with a silent old uncle in a wild mountainous region. The count despises art in every form; the girl is wildly romantic, highly musical, and devoted to modern realistic literature. An old German secretary of the uncle and his ideal daughter, a young unsuccessful Italian author, several priests, scions of nobility, modern capitalists and surveyors all suffer from the wild nature of the young marchioness. The mystery of a mad ancestor finally accounts tragically for her vagaries.

A spiritual love between a Christian maiden and Olaf still imbued with the paganism and weird sagas of the Northland is supposed to have brought about the momentous change which took place in Norway in the somewhat distorted Christianity of the 10th century. Odin, Thor and Frey hold their worshippers among the deep fjords until conquered by the new cult of love and self-sacrifice, as specially voiced by "the star of Valhalla," the enthusiastic Christian maiden.

Author is professor of English in Haverford College. The publication of "The popular ballad" marks the beginning of an important series of books, which when completed will give to the student and reader a comprehensive history of English literature from an entirely new point of view. Instead of taking up, chronologically, the various periods, a division according to types has been adopted. In this way the essay, the novel, the tragedy, the short story, the ballad, the lyric, and other forms will be taken up and treated separately, thus securing a unity in treatment of the rise and development of all the important literary forms.

Kingsley, Mrs. Florence Morse. The princess and the ploughman. N. Y., Harper, 1907. c. '06. 261 p. front. D. cl., *$1.25.

An old aunt left to Mary Adams, a romantic, ingenuous American girl of rural Massachusetts, a fortune, provided she were married on her twenty-third birthday. Otherwise the money was to go towards the education of the people of Hawaii. Mary falls romantically in love with a sister-student, who is highly practical but fails to get her friend married. The ploughman, highly educated, devoted to the memory of his mother, hears Mary's story and offers to marry her and leave her free to educate the people of Hawaii. The princess and the ploughman are both romantic idealists. In time they come to the facts of life and a pretty story is the outcome.

Again the author of "If I were king" has taken François Villon for his hero. The dissolute poetic genius of the days of Louis xi. in the latter part of the 15th century has now become the adoring husband of Katherine de Vaucelles, and also Lord of Moncorbier, and their pretty home in the historic Provençal country makes a background for incidents varied and exciting. Louis xi. dominates some stormy scenes.

In 1850 Dr. Martin went out from Indiana as a missionary to China, and during all these years has been actively engaged mostly among the Chinese, but partly also among the Japanese, as evangelist and teacher. He was president of the New Imperial University of China, broken up by the Boxer rebellion, and latterly has been president of the University of Wu Chang. This book presents a history of China from the earliest period to the present time, and gives an accurate picture of the vast dominions of the Empire, as well as forecasts the future from present conditions. The Chinese, Dr. Martin thinks, "united in a firm resolve to break with the past and to seek new life by adopting the essentials of Western civilization," have in the four years since the Boxer uprising enacted sweeping reforms and accomplished amazing results. It has been estimated that in the United States alone there are 60,000 new victims of tuberculosis each year. This book treats of the different modes of living, comparing the relative merits of life in a tent, ranch, boarding-house and sanatorium, and giving the cost of each; discusses the length of time necessary to regain health; the question of obtaining employment if one needs to work for one's living, and how to get the most out of life if one's daily bread is provided for; also whether the invalid should go away alone or take his family with him. The chapter on "Don'ts" in itself evidences wisdom gained from experience. Finally there are many facts about climatic conditions in Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona and information about the cities in that section.

Begins among the brutal Boers of South Africa. Melicent Lutwyche is left an orphan at 15 in the hands of an intemperate Boer stepmother, who cruelly ill-treats her. Her mother's brother, a cold English clergyman, offers her a home in the north of England. Six girl cousins and their stupid mother make life intolerable. Melicent is adopted by people she met crossing from Africa, studies to be an architect, and when self-supporting, at the age of twenty-two, meets the man who had saved her from her stepmother, who becomes "the man who won." Melicent offers a fine study of character, full of faults, but very lovable.

"This book," says the preface, "is for the country house, or any place where there is woodland or land to plant; its object is to get people, after thought of the needs of a true garden, to think more of their woods from æsthetic and other points of view. Its aim is to teach the best of all lessons for garden-lovers—too often absorbed in the exotic, the curious, and the tender—that our own country's [England] trees are the most beautiful we shall ever have, and our native flowers as fair as any."

Romance of the days of chivalry, when women were passing fair and men were hot fighters and daring lovers. Richard III., the execrated Duke of Gloucester, is here portrayed in very different colors than those of Shakespeare—as a brave and honorable man with an attractive magnetic personality, albeit also a bold usurper and wily statesman. Even the murder of the little princes in the Tower is laid at others' doors. A young English knight and his lady love, Beatrix of Clare, great heiress and altogether charming woman, provide the romantic interest for this stirring tale of mediæval England by the author of "The colonel of the Red Huzzars."

Introductory to a work that will be published later, in which the system will be described, devised by King S. Gillette for the amelioration of the ever-increasing social ills. This volume offers a comprehensive review of social conditions, racial, international, national, state, individual and miscellaneous, described by many authorities. Since it is impossible to consider each nation separately, Russia and the Congo Free State are chosen as exemplifying the deepest shadows; while fully half of the book is given up to political, financial, social and legislative conditions in the United States. Appendix contains a brief outline of Gillette's "system," which proposes "the organization of a world-wide corporation with an unlimited, elastic and constantly self-adjusting capitalization . . . for the purpose of purchasing and ultimately controlling all means for the production of wealth throughout the world. The capital will consist of the money paid in by the people."

Sheppard, Alfred Tresidder. Running Horse Inn: a novel. Phil., Lippincott, 1907. c. 395 p. col. il. D. cl., †$1.50.

A peaceful inn in lovely Kent near Canterbury is the scene of this tale of revenge and hatred, staged for the years following the battle of Waterloo when England, in the grip of hard times, was seething with unrest and revolt. There are two brothers, one just returned from the wars to find his sweetheart married to the other against the will of her hard vindictive father, who pronounces an all-embracing curse upon her and her husband on their wedding day. The story shows the tragic working out of this curse in the growing enmity of the brothers and their cumulative ill fortune; and also introduces a futile uprising of the people in London against the government.

The author of "The jungle" believes that within a year after the presidential election of 1912 a great revolution will take place in the United States, of which the outcome will be "the industrial republic," founded on Communism in material production. The book gives his reasons for his convictions. Incidentally he describes the plan and workings of the Helicon Home Colony of Englewood, New Jersey, where his co-operative scheme was in successful operation when Helicon Hall was destroyed by fire on March 16, 1907. The book is dedicated to H. G. Wells, "the next most hopeful."

Miss Brinkhaus, assistant director of the Massachusetts educational exhibits at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, has been active since then in introducing decoration into schoolrooms. Sculpture she considers better than pictures, because it specially teaches the beautiful in form and also "has power to impart psychologic insight." Chicago's most distinguished sculptor has written most of the articles on sculpture in a manner fitted for the instruction of children. Several illustrations of artistically decorated schoolrooms are given in the paper pamphlet, which is intended for distribution among the teachers of the country.

As the editor and proprietor of the New York Sun the name of Charles A. Dana must be familiar to every one. That his life was one of singular activity in many fields is not as well known, nor that it ran parallel with the great events of more than half a century. He joined the Brook Farm Community in his early days; afterwards became city editor of the New York Tribune; visited France and Germany as correspondent; was appointed assistant Secretary of War to Mr. Stanton; joined Grant in the field, besides continuing his duties in Washington. After our war he bought the Sun, making it an independent paper. His work is traced through the period of reconstruction and Grant's first and second administrations, Hayes's administration, and to the closing days of his life, on October 17, 1897.

OLD BOOK NOTES.

ROSSINI'S MASS BRINGS $750.—The manuscript of Rossini's unpublished last mass, "Gratias," was sold at Anderson's, on the evening of May 24, for $750. At the same sale the manuscript of "Keats's "Endymion" brought $194, and that of Keats's "Lamia" $215. A copy of Thackeray's "Christmas Book," (1848,) was sold for $180; Tennyson's "Promise of May," $100; a copy of "Heroditas," with annotations by Oscar Wilde, $86; a letter of George Washington to Colonel Van Schaick, 185; George Cruikshank's "Humorists," $340, and three letters of General Grant, $60, $28 and $25 respectively.

RARE VOLUME MISSING AT PERUGIA.—The loss of an art treasure has aroused considerable indignation at Perugia, Italy, and there is an intimation that the missing property has passed into the hands of an American. The Church of San Pietro, of Perugia, according to a despatch to the New York Tribune, had in its possession twenty-two large illuminated volumes, dating from the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. The most beautiful of them was the product of Giacomo Caporali. Two years ago a local physician, who was attending the abbot of San Pietro, asked permission to copy the Caporali volume for a rich American. He was allowed to take the volume home, but never returned it. The abbot is now dead and the physician is ill at Florence.

A VALUABLE FIND IN WASTE PAPER.—Among a quantity of old and mostly valueless books bought recently at the price of waste paper by a second-hand book man in Westminster, London, was found a copy of Gabriel Thomas's "Historical and Geographical Account of the Province and County of Pennsylvania and West New Jersey," printed in London in 1698. The dealer, attracted by the date, submitted the book to the Hodgsons, the well-known book auctioneers, who assured him that it was one of the rarest pieces of Americana known and ought to realize a good sum. The dealer's hopes had not soared above $25, but he learned joyfully that the Sothebys recently sold a copy of the work for $800. Seventeen copies have been sold at auction since 1876, bringing, according to condition, from $65 to $805. It is a small octavo dedicated to "Friend William Penn." It is the earliest work relating to Pennsylvania and was written to encourage emigration.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

INDIVIDUALIZATION OF FICTION PRICES.

ON the whole we are disposed to think that the solution of the fiction problem is in the individualization of prices. It has come to be an accepted tradition in the trade that fiction as a rule is to be printed in a volume at $1.50, whatever be the actual selling price of the $1.50 book; and while there are exceptions to this general rule, these are only exceptions. Such a uniform price is in some respects a convenience, but a brief analysis shows that it has little if any business justification. That a novel of one hundred thousand words should be priced the same as one of two hundred and fifty thousand words, one which will sell from 1000 to 5000 copies the same as one for which 100,000 sale may be expected, one which pays an unknown author a ten per cent. royalty or a less return, the same as one which pays a popular author of wide reputation twenty per cent., is a condition which obtains in almost no other branch of manufacture or trade. In fact we fail to recall any parallel.

Possibly this very uniformity of price has helped to demoralize the public into expecting to buy its novel at $1.08 or $1.18, or whatever the advertised "cut price" may be. Uniformity suggests that the margin of profit is so large that it is possible to mark any sort of novel at this price. Why should not the public pay more for one novel two or three times as long as another, or more for the work of an author of long experience and established vogue than for the work of a new writer, as it pays larger fees to a doctor or lawyer, or a larger salary to a minister who has "made his mark."

From this point of view the price of $1.75 made by Messrs. Holt on the new novel of De Morgan—though, as we pointed out, this can scarcely become a generalized price—sets the pace in the right direction. Mr. De Morgan's first book established for him a distinct reputation and selling value; he writes at length, and he scarcely appeals to the "book-seller" constituency. Under these circumstances $1.75 seems a fair and proper price. It is of course difficult for a publisher to prophesy whether the sale of a new novel will be restricted to a thousand or a few thousand copies, or can be pushed to the utmost limit of successful sale, but this is true of all books as well as fiction. Indeed, there might as well be uniformity in other classes of books as in fiction with like advantages and disadvantages. We suggest to the publishing trade that each publisher of fiction would do well to consider whether in his announcements for the fall season he should not begin to adopt the principle of individualized prices for works of fiction.

IN the death of James Kelly passes away an interesting personality as well as an undaunted pioneer in the field of booktrade bibliography. Those who knew Mr. Kelly—a splendid specimen of the real old Irish gentleman—even superficially, can easily understand why he took upon himself the almost superhuman task of carrying forward, single-handed, the records of the American publishing trade from where Orville A. Roorbach had been obliged for lack of support to abandon the work. Aware of the fact that the task at the best would barely pay for itself, Mr. Kelly nevertheless undertook it, because he felt it must be done. And only he who has worked in the treadmill all the day long to provide a living for a growing family, and then burned the midnight oil—beyond midnight and into the dawning day at a "labor of love"—can appreciate the self-sacrifice and heroism necessary to carry on and bring to completion such a work as that which Mr. Kelly presented to his colleagues in the booktrade in the two volumes of "The American Catalogue," covering the period from 1861 to 1871, and recording, roughly, about 32,000 titles of books, including those put out by 127 Learned and other literary associations. Considering the difficulties under which such work must have been prosecuted—in spare hours and without financial support—it will stand forever as a monument to the public spirit and the unselfish devotion of one member of a profession to his fellow members, and also as a splendid achievement in bibliography. Nor was his effort in vain; the torch that he kindled has been handed down undimmed and still burns brightly to illumine the dark paths in the wilderness of books that threatens to grow denser year by year. All honor to the pathfinders in this wilderness—ROORBACH, KELLY and LEYPOLDT! They have made the way clearer and the task of their successors lighter, while their example is a daily inspiration to ever greater endeavors.

FRENCH BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1906.

WE print below a classified list of the books deposited in 1906 for copyright purposes with the Bureau de la Librairie of the Ministry of the Interior, at Paris. The total, 8467, is 1025 less than the number of titles recorded by the Bureau in 1905 and 2431 less than the number of titles recorded in 1906 by the Bibliographie de la France. As pointed out before the statistics of the Bureau of the Ministry of the Interior represent only the more stable element in French book production, while the records of the Bibliographie de la France, as do the records of the trade journals of other countries, include all titles of which they are able to obtain information without regard to their merits as literature. The following table has been prepared from the "Table Systematique," published by the Cercle de la Librairie:

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PERIODICAL PUBLISHERS.

THE PERIODICAL PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA held its fourth annual outing and banquet at the Hotel Ten Eyk, Albany, N. Y., on May 17. The publishers and their guests—about three hundred persons—made the trip to Albany from New York on the Day Line boat New York.

The president of the Association, Fred-eric L. Colver, welcomed the members and their guests at the banquet given in the Hotel Ten Eyk, and said that the publishers and editors assembled were working for that which is best in periodical literature, uninfluenced by party or sect. He then introduced Hamilton Wright Mabie as toastmaster.

Dr. Mabie said that magazines either go at the end or at the front in the forward movement in America, but he was pleased to note that the function of the majority of them was to lead the procession of advancement.

The first speaker of the evening was Charles E. Hughes, Governor of New York State, who spoke of his executive duties as of a specialized publication which was late in going to press, but he had hopes that when the number did appear it would please the general public who had subscribed for the issue.

Following came the Baron Takewo Ozawa, the special envoy of the Emperor of Japan, who came over to present the decoration of the Order of the Rising Sun to Dr. Louis Klopsch, editor of the Christian Herald. The baron made an address in his native language, which was translated into English by Massatake S. Togo. The baron was followed by Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, Commander Peary, Dr. A. T. Hadley and others.

CONSUMPTION OF PULP WOOD.

THE Census Bureau has prepared a preliminary report on the consumption of pulp wood in the United States for the calendar year ended December 31, 1906, which shows that during that period 3,646,693 cords were used, as compared with 3,192,123 cords utilized in 1905. This is an increase of 154,570 cords. The principal wood used in 1906 was domestic spruce, of which 1,785,680 cords were consumed. Classified according to methods of reducing into pulp, the mechanical process took 1,197,780 cords; the sulphite process, 1,944,136 cords, and the soda process, 504,777 cords. The figures cover the operations of 250 mills in 1906 and 237 in 1905.

NO REVISION OF THE VULGATE.

A LETTER written by Cardinal Rampolla in his capacity of prefect of the Biblical commission to the Abbot Primate of the Benedictines which has just been published apropos of the sensational report that the Pope had ordered a revision of the Vulgate, shows that no revision of the Vulgate is contemplated, but only a revision of its variants.

This may constitute a preliminary step toward a general future revision, but such a revision has not been decided upon yet. In any case it is unlikely to happen within ten years. Hence the Vatican insists upon its denial that a revision is contemplated and affirms that the report to that effect was premature.

The Abbot Primate says that the work will be long, laborious and tedious, and that it cannot commence until a commission of six Benedictine fathers is selected and appointed.

LONDON THE SECOND-HAND BOOK MARKET OF THE WORLD.

IN an interview with Mr. Bernard Quaritch, reported in the May issue of the London Book Monthly, Mr. Quaritch gave it as his opinion that "London is the central second-hand book market of the world, and so if an American collection is to be sold it naturally comes here for the purpose, although parts of it may again cross the Atlantic. At American sales wealthy collectors bid heavily against each other, and force the few books in which they may speculate up to almost excessive prices, while other books, not necessarily less valuable, will go at a sacrifice. But when you put a collection into the auction rooms in London it is different, because Europe, as well as America, attends the sale, and a more equitable test of the individual value of each book is obtained. Then London has an advantage over Paris as a distributing centre for second-hand books, since a sale here costs very much less. It goes through for the 12½ per cent. which represents the commission of the auction room; while in Paris, thanks to one thing or another—a Government tax included—you will be lucky if you get a sale over for 25 per cent. of the amount realized."

OBITUARY.

JAMES KELLY.

JAMES KELLY, one of the pioneers in the field of American bibliography, passed away peacefully on the morning of May 16, at his home, 37 McKinley Avenue, East Orange, N. J. For some time, owing to an accident, Mr. Kelly had not been able to visit the trade as frequently as he was accustomed to do years ago, though he never ceased to give his business the closest possible attention. Mr. Kelly, it will be remembered, for thirty years was the purchasing agent for a number of large institutions, the British Museum among others, besides supplying the orders for private buyers and acting as forwarding agent for out-of-town booksellers. Mr. Kelly was a man of fine presence, of a cheerful, optimistic nature, philosophical to the last, and meeting death unflinchingly, supported by the comforts and consolation of the church of which he was from childhood a devoted and loyal supporter, and to which he gave so generously of what he held dearest. Though he did not succeed in accumulating great wealth as measured by worldly standards, he was rich in true friends who honored him in life and beyond, a distinguished Bishop of his church delivering a eulogy over his grave—a rare honor to a layman and richly merited. He was one of those rare men who, recognizing a duty, strain every nerve to accomplish it regardless of reward or applause. In performing one such task he has laid the booktrade under an obligation that will endure for all time.

James Kelly, who was so intrepid as to take up the work of Roorbach, was born in Renaughmore, County Tipperary, Ireland, April 15, 1829. His father was a prosperous farmer, and young James received his education in the parish schools of his native place. Even in his boyhood he was noted for close application to such duties and tasks as fell to his share, and for a strong and rugged constitution, two factors that enabled him in later life to surmount difficulties and to accomplish labors from which a less patient man would have shrunk, and to which a weaker one might have succumbed.

At the age of twenty Kelly resolved to join the Royal Irish Constabulary, and, having passed successfully all the preliminary examinations, he went to Dublin to receive his military training. Having completed the term of his novitiate as a soldier, he was ordered to County Meath for active service. His superiors soon discovered in him talents of no ordinary degree, and the qualifications that make an effective officer, and almost at once appointed him compiler of the government agricultural and census statistics. In his new official position he was brought more intimately into communication with more classes of society than generally fell to the lot of other members of the constabulary. Hence it was that Kelly became a close observer of all social and political questions. In a series of letters to the Dublin press about this time he severely censured the British Government for its harsh treatment of the Irish constabulary, and for its injustice in the onerous duties imposed upon them. These letters elicited comments of hearty approval and admiration.

In 1852 Kelly resigned his position and married the daughter of a well-to-do architect and builder who lived near Dublin. Shortly after he came to this country, and in 1857 took charge of the order department of Wiley & Halstead's wholesale book business—about a year before that firm published Roorbach's "Addenda to the Bibliotheca Americana." Mr. Kelly remained with the Wiley firm seventeen years, and during that time acquired much of the bibliographical knowledge that is displayed in his two volumes of "The American Catalogue."

In 1863, impelled by his own needs, rather than by the hope of any material encouragement from his fellow-booksellers, he began the compilation of his continuation of Roorbach's "Bibliotheca Americana." The period covered by him, from 1861-1866, was one of the most eventful in the history of the United States, commencing in war and ending in peace. As for the greater part of that time all communication was cut off from the Southern States, Kelly naturally could not include in the main alphabet the titles of such books as were published in the South. He succeeded, however, in obtaining for the appendix to his volume the titles of forty-two books that were published during the war by four firms—in Columbia, S. C., Mobile, Ala., Greensboro, N. C., and Richmond, Va. It may be interesting to note that eleven of these were school textbooks, thirteen were devoted to military science, thirteen were novels, three were song books for soldiers, and one was a "Confederate Receipt Book." By extensive correspondence Kelly created in the North and West a widespread interest in the subject of bibliography, and succeeded in cataloguing the titles of upwards of 11,000 books, in addition to over 2000 pamphlets, sermons, and addresses on the Civil War, and the publication of 73 learned societies and other literary associations.

All work on this catalogue was performed in about three years, single-handed, by Mr. Kelly, who, during this time, never failed to attend to his duties at the Wiley store. The volume made its appearance in the winter of 1866.

In the fall of 1871 Kelly published his second volume of "The American Catalogue," covering the period from January, 1866, to January, 1871. It gave in alphabetical order the titles of over 18,000 books, and in an appendix the publications of 54 learned societies and other literary associations.

Bibliographically, Kelly's work was far superior to that of his predecessors in completeness and accuracy. It is therefore humiliating to record that, in spite of the thorough and accurate work produced by him, he was not able to secure the needed pecuniary support to undertake the publication of a bibliography of American literature from the introduction of printing in the colonies down to the beginning of the War between the States.

In 1874 Kelly accepted a position in the publishing house of James R. Osgood & Co., Boston, and remained with them until 1877. In that year he returned to New York and established himself as bookseller and importer of rare books. He devoted his life to a strict attention to his business; punctuality, honesty and fidelity were his watchwords, and the mainspring of all his actions. There was in his day no man better known in the book business in this country, none better informed on the subject of home and foreign publications, and none more thoroughly conversant with the general literature of the day.

His business will be continued under his name by his family.

OBITUARY NOTES.

PROFESSOR ALBERT HARKNESS, one of the best-known authors of Latin text-books in this country, died on May 26 at Providence, R. I. Professor Harkness was born in Mendon, Mass., October 6, 1822, and graduated from Brown University, of which he was professor emeritus of languages at the time of his death. He prepared upwards of twenty Latin and Greek text-books and assisted in the preparation of a number of others.

THE REV. DR. GOTTLÖB FREDERICK KROTEL, a prominent Lutheran clergyman and author, died at his home in New York City on May 18. Dr. Krotel was born at Ilsfeld, Würtemberg, on February 4, 1826, and came to this country in 1830. He was the author of a work on "The Beatitudes," "Explanation of Luther's Catechism," etc., translated a "Life of Melancthon," and edited The Lutheran, the official organ of the Lutheran General Council.

GENERAL H. S. TURRILL, of New Milford, Conn., died in the offices of the Grafton Press, at 70 Fifth Avenue, New York, on the morning of May 24, as he was about to dictate to a stenographer some material for a book of memoirs he was to publish in connection with the New Milford bicentennial celebration, to be held this month. Heart disease was the cause of death. General Turrill was born in New Milford on September 8, 1842, and was educated at Yale. In 1870 he joined the medical corps of the United States Army and served until 1906, when he was retired.

MRS. ELLA FARMAN PRATT, author of a number of books for young people, died on May 22 at Warner, N. H. Mrs. Pratt was born in New York City in 1843. After her marriage to Charles Stuart Pratt she assisted her husband in editing Wide Awake, published by D. Lothrop & Co., and when that magazine suspended publication edited Little Folks. Her first book, "Anna Maylie," was brought out in 1873. This was followed by over a dozen others, among them "A Girl's Money," "Good-for-Nothing Polly," "Miss Mischief," "The Cooking Club of Tu-Whit Hollow," "How Two Girls Tried Farming," "The Little Cave Dwellers," etc. Some of her books were published under the pseudonym of "Dorothea Alice Shepherd" and others under her maiden name.

SIR JOSEPH FAYRER, physician extraordinary to King Edward VII., died at Falmouth, Eng., on May 21. Sir Joseph Fayrer was born at Plymouth, Eng., December 6, 1824, and after graduating from the University of Edinburgh, entered the medical service of the navy, doing duty in the military hospital of Palermo during the siege of that city in 1847 and 1849. In 1849 he went to India, where he remained until 1879. Sir Joseph was the author of many books relating to his medical experience in India, among them "The Thanatopidia of India," "Clinical Surgery in India," "Clinical and Pathological Studies in India," "Tropical Diseases," "Climate and Fevers of India" and "Preservation of Health in India." He also wrote a "Life of Sir R. Martin, C.B.," "With the Princes in India," "The Royal Tiger of Bengal" and a volume of personal "Recollections."

CHARLES MONTGOMERY BARNES, the founder of the firm of C. M. Barnes Company, of Chicago, died on May 19, at Seattle, Wash. Mr. Barnes was born at Canton, Ill., in 1833, of Home Missionary parents, his father being a member of the celebrated Yale Band. He worked his way through Knox College, studied two years at Andover and was the first graduate of the Chicago Theological Seminary. He spent ten years in the ministry of the Congregational Church in Illinois, including service as chaplain of the Ninety-third Regiment Illinois Volunteers in the Civil War. Failing health caused him to leave the ministry and enter commercial life. In 1872 Mr. Barnes in a modest way established himself in the second-hand school book business at Wheaton, Ill., removing it to 23 La Salle Street, Chicago, from which he removed, a year and a half later, to larger quarters at 54 La Salle Street. The business of jobbing second-hand school books, of which he was the originator or founder, grew steadily, year by year, to a business of very extensive proportions and covered every State and territory. Besides jobbing second-hand school books Mr. Barnes also dealt extensively in new miscellaneous books and in stationery, obliging him to seek larger quarters, first at 163 Washington Street and, in 1882, at 153 Wabash Avenue, and later at 75 to 77 Wabash Avenue. In 1894, Mr. Barnes met with business reverses, and, after settling with his creditors, reorganized his business under the firm name of C. M. Barnes Company, dealing exclusively in school books. In 1896 the company removed from 75 to 106-112 Wabash Avenue and later to 262 to 264 on the same street, where the business is now carried on. He is survived by a widow and five children—among them W. R. Barnes, the president of the C. M. Barnes Company.

THEODORE TILTON, author, editor and lecturer, died in Paris, on May 25. Mr. Tilton was born in New York City, October 2, 1835. After graduating from the Free Academy, now the College of the City of New York, in 1855, he associated himself with The Churchman and later with The New York Observer. In 1856 he joined the editorial staff of The Independent, continuing his association for fifteen years, the latter part of the time as editor-in-chief. In 1865 Mr. Tilton began his career as a public speaker and lecturer, and he was for nineteen years one of the most popular lyceum attractions in this country. After withdrawing from The Independent, Mr. Tilton founded in 1871 a weekly journal of his own, called The Golden Age, which he sold in 1874 to his associate, William T. Clarke. During the last few weeks of his editorship of The Independent he also edited The Brooklyn Union. In 1874 Mr. Tilton preferred his sensational charges against the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, who had long been his pastor and protector. The social scandal aroused was one of the most notable in the whole history of the country up to that period. The trial lasted more than six months, the jury failing to agree, three only siding with the plaintiff. Mr. Tilton after that devoted himself to literary work until 1883, when he went to Europe, living for short periods in Oxford, Cambridge, Stuttgart, Munich and Dresden. In 1888 he went to Paris, where he remained until his death. Mr. Tilton wrote, in 1862, the memorial of Mrs. Browning prefixed to the American edition of her poems. His published works include: "The Fly," "The Two Hungry Kittens," "Golden Haired Gertrude," "The King's Ring," "The True Church," "The Sexton's Tale, and Other Poems," "Tempest Tossed, a Romance," "Thou and I, a Lyric of Human Life," "Suabian Stories," a volume of poems; "The Chameleon's Dish, and Other Poems," "Great Tom, the Curfew Bell at Oxford," a ballad; "Heart's Ease, and Other Poems," "A Career Unique," nineteen sonnets commemorating the life and genius of Frederick Douglass; "Our American Don Quixote," a ballad on Ponce de Leon; "Confessions of a Pyramid, and Other Poems," and "The Fading of the Mayflower," a poem. In 1897 Mr. Tilton published his "Complete Poetical Works," (up to that time,) in a single volume of more than eight hundred pages, with a preface on ballad making and an appendix on Norse myths and fables. One of his sons, Ralph Tilton, who for several years was associated with the Butterick Company, died recently.

POSTAL MATTERS.

UNITED STATES STILL HAS RE-MAILING PRIVILEGES ON SECOND-CLASS MATTER FROM CANADA.

In reference to a statement contained in a dispatch from Washington that the Postmaster-General of Canada had informed the Postmaster-General of the United States that it would be impossible for the Canadian Post-office Department to handle second class mail matter sent into that country from the United States by express or freight and remailed in Canada, Rodolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General, is reported to have said on May 21:

"I might state that no such prohibition has been made. The United States has the same privilege of re-mailing to-day in Canada under the present postal convention as it had under the old one, with the exception that instead of the rate being one cent a pound, it is one cent for four ounces or four cents a pound. The fact that the rate has been raised from one to four cents is the natural sequence of the amended convention."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

OWING to the numerous requests made upon her for another of those popular translations from the German, Mrs. A. L. Wister has acceded to the demand, and has delivered into the hands of her publishers, the J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia, the manuscript of a new translation from her favorite author, Adolph Streckfuss, to be entitled "The Lonely House."

TOLSTOI'S new book, "The Way to Social Freedom," which will first see the light in Berlin, is said to be more drastic and revolutionary than anything else he has written. He recommends, it seems, a universal refusal of obedience to Government orders in Russia. After reading the reports on the Russian torture system, one is not greatly surprised at such a counsel of despair.

ROBERT HICHENS'S new novel bears the queer title of "Barbary Sheep." Like "The Garden of Allah," the scene is laid in the desert, and it is the last story, it is reported, to which the author intends to give that background. Readers who delight in the unexpected will be glad to know that the dénouement is of that sort. Before "Barbary Sheep" appears in book form it will be published as a serial in Ainslie's Magazine.

THE eighty-eighth anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe was celebrated quietly at her Boston home on Beacon Street, May 27. There were present among those who offered congratulations: F. Marion Crawford, her nephew, to whom Mrs. Howe gave great encouragement in the beginning of his literary career; also, her daughters, Florence Howe Hall, Laura Richards, her son, Professor Henry Marion Howe, of Columbia University, and several of her grandchildren.

HARRY SCHINDLER, better known to the police throughout the country as the "Swindler," with a record of twenty-two years of successful bank thievery, netting more than $100,000, has reformed and is earning an honest living in Chicago. He has written a book, "How a Bank Sneak Works," which has created considerable interest in the financial world by its revelations of the secrets of his profession. He hopes by this means to put bankers on their guard against the crooks whom he has deserted.

THE Harvard Travellers' Club has just given its second medal to Ellsworth Huntington, who is at present an instructor in geography at Yale University. On account of his exploration of the Euphrates River in 1901 Mr. Huntington received the Gill Memorial from the Royal Geographical Society of London. In 1903 he accompanied the Pumpelly expedition to Transcaspia, and he only recently returned from a year spent in the deserts of Chinese Turkestan, where he travelled practically alone. His interesting account of this last journey will be published in the fall by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. under the title of "The Pulse of Asia."

THE centenary of the birth of Louis John Rudolph Agassiz, the great naturalist, was celebrated on May 27 at Cambridge, Mass., by the Cambridge Historical Society. Agassiz, of French Huguenot ancestry, was born in Switzerland, and came to this country in 1846 on a scientific mission for the King of Prussia and to deliver a course of lectures in Boston. He accepted a professorship in the newly founded scientific school in Cambridge, and entered upon his duties there in the spring of 1848, having secured an honorable discharge from the Prussian Government. He remained in his adopted country until his death, in 1873. Cornell University also celebrated the day with appropriate exercises.

FERRIS GREENSLET, author of the "Life of James Russell Lowell" and "Walter Pater," is now collecting letters and material for a "Memoir of Thomas Bailey Aldrich," which he hopes to have ready for publication by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. in the fall of 1908. The book will be written with the sanction and co-operation of Mr. Aldrich's family and friends. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. have in preparation the Ponkapog edition of Aldrich's "Complete Works," in nine volumes, handsomely illustrated, and issued in the same size and style as their recent Riverby-Burroughs and "Walden" Thoreau. It will be sold by subscription only, and will be the definitive edition of Aldrich's works.

WILLIAM LIVINGSTON ALDEN, the American novelist and story writer, who was said to be in want in London, and in whose behalf an appeal for funds was made by Peter Keary, writes to the press that the appeal "was made under a misapprehension," and begs "that no contributions be sent" to the proposed fund. Mr. Alden, it will be remembered, was a leader-writer on the New York World and Times until 1885, when he was appointed Consul-General to Rome. Later he wrote for the Paris Herald, from 1890 to 1893, when he went to London, where he has since lived. Among his better known books are "Adventures of Jimmie Brown," "Cruise of the Canoe Club," "Told by the Colonel" and "Loss of the Swansea."

THE pseudonym "Onota Watanna" of the author of "The Diary of Delia" covers a multitude of interesting facts. "Onota Watanna" is the daughter of an Englishman, Mr. Eaton, and her mother is of Japanese and Chinese descent. The author is married to an American, Wm. Babcock, of New York City, and has two small sons, who are patriotic members of the Sons of the American Revolution. "Onota Watanna" is but twenty-six years old, is the author of seven books, and is now hard at work upon another. Her experience from the time she left China until she reached New York City are varied and interesting. The Eaton home in Canada was a camping ground for many Japanese and Chinese travellers in America. The author's father was a friend of Chinese Gordon, also of the secretary of Lee Hung Chang. We believe Scotland and Ireland claim "Onota Watanna," as well as Japan, China, France, and, through her marriage, America. This complex ancestry has resulted in a versatility which is shown forth most charmingly in "Onota Watanna's" books. She has entered into the spirit of Delia's, the Irish cook's, point of view as heartily and sympathetically as she did in that of the "Japanese Nightingale's."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

A NEW monthly magazine of "economic and applied politics" has made its appearance under the name of Government. It is published in Boston at 24 Milk Street. The first issue, that of May, contains a defense of Christian Science in relation to government by Alfred Farlow, "The Fallacy of Protection," by William Lloyd Garrison, and "The Railroad Problem," by Charles Stedman Hanks. The issue includes also editorials, political reviews of the world, and reviews of political and economic books.

THE Viking Club, or the Society for Northern Research, founded in 1892, has just brought out its official organ in the form of the Orkney and Shetland Old Lore, a magazine which is to publish material of interest in connection with the Orkney and Shetland Islands. Each number, quarterly, is to contain a miscellany and a "Diplomatorium Orcadense et Hialtlandense," the latter consisting mostly of translations of old records and the like. The miscellany is to contain notes and queries, genealogy, folk-lore, archæology, bibliography, lists of papers and societies, etc. Material will be printed on northern research in general, and extra numbers will be printed when possible. Meetings of the club are held at King's Weigh House Rooms, Thomas Street, Grosvenor Square, W., London.

THE host of people who read and enjoyed "The Lightning Conductor," "The Princess Passes" and other famous automobile romances by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, will be pleased to learn that these popular writers have just finished a new story in the same vein, which will appear in the July issue of Lippincott's Magazine. "He Who Stole and Rode Away" has for its hero one Lawrence O'Hagan, an ex-captain of the British army, whom the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune have thrust temporarily into the position of chauffeur. How he is thus enabled to take a hand in the somewhat shady game of a pair of titled Austrians, who are seeking to possess themselves of the fortune of a young Irish girl, Mona Eversleigh, is most entertainingly set forth. Besides the novellette, there are many other features of note in this unusually bright and readable issue of Lippincott's. The cover is particularly attractive and timely.

FRANK A. MUNSEY has made arrangements to combine two of his magazines—The Scrap Book and Woman—add two other magazines, The Cavalier and The Live Wire, and sell the whole as one magazine in two parts for twenty-five cents. The first issue will be the July number. First, there will be the Scrap Book as it stands to-day, bound in its own cover. But attached to each copy will be a second magazine of about 190 pages, filled with fiction, special articles and pictures, also with its own cover and make-up. These two publications will only be sold together, as the Scrap Book, Section I and II, and the price for the combination is set at twenty-five cents, making two fifteen-cent magazines for twelve and a half cents apiece. The second section of the remodelled Scrap Book will be a merger of three distinct magazines. First, Woman, which is to disappear as an entity; second, one of the new fiction magazines that was planned by Mr. Munsey, which would have been called The Cavalier; third, the other, which was given, provisionally, the suggestive name of The Live Wire.

PERSONAL NOTES.

A. T. LEON, of Cupples & Leon, sails for Europe to-day.

HAROLD ROBERTS, for some time head of the Foreign Department of the American Tobacco Company, has acquired an interest in McClure's Magazine and will hereafter be associated with the McClure Publishing Company.

CHARLES L. BOWMAN, of Charles L. Bowman & Co., and Frederick D. Lacy, of G. P. Putnam's Sons, sailed for Europe by the S. S. Mesaba, of the Atlantic Transport Line. Their objective point is London, where they hope to find lots of good things to interest the book-lovers of America. We wish them good luck.

GEORGE A. OLNEY, affectionately known to the trade as "Uncle George," has withdrawn from the Edward Kimpton Company of New York, and will hereafter represent the Irving-Pitt Company of Kansas City. Although Mr. Olney's territory will practically be the whole country he will retain his home in New York City.

DR. LOUIS KLOPSCH, editor of the Christian Herald, on May 16 was decorated with the Order of the Rising Sun in recognition of the efforts of his paper for relief of the famine sufferers in Japan. The decoration was conferred by Baron Takewo Ozawa, personal envoy of the Emperor and Empress of Japan. As a result of the campaign begun by the paper $250,000 was raised for the sufferers.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY have published a catalogue of the post-cards either published by them here or imported from their factories abroad.

KARSLAKE & Co., London, have published the second part of the fourth volume of "Book Auction Records," edited by Frank Karslake. The volume covers twenty-four sales at Christie's, Hodgson's, Puttick & Simpson's, and at Sotheby's, from January 1 to March 31, 1907, a total of 4001 records. The records are prefaced with an interesting sketch of "Bristol, its Libraries, and its Booksellers," by Stanley Hutton, author of "Bristol and its Famous Associations," accompanied by a picture of the old Central Library building, brief notes of interest to dealers in old books by the editor, and a list of booksellers' catalogues. (24+165-317 p. 12², pap.)

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON have just issued "Jesus Christ Our Lord: an English bibliography of Christology," comprising over 5000 titles annotated and classified," by Samuel Gardiner Ayres, librarian of Drew Theological Seminary. This work was first undertaken in 1888. In 1891 and 1892, when the Crooks and Hurst Methodology was being prepared for a new revision, the author was asked to furnish the list on Christology. Classification is difficult in a work so extensive as the present, but as far as known this is the most complete collection of works in the English language on the subject. Translations from various languages are included. The annotations are neither prolix or vague. The work has been done in the hope that some one at some future time will do the same kind of work in other languages. References to periodical literature are not included. The student is referred to "Poole's Index" and the supplemental volumes. The titles of the books are included as far as possible to April 1, 1906. An addenda includes the very latest books on the subjects and those inadvertently omitted. A full index to authors makes the classified list practical and useful. A star prefixed to titles indicates all volumes examined for the bibliography. (502 p. 8°, cl.)

KARSLAKE & Co. intend to publish, provided sufficient support be given to the proposal, a volume to be entitled "Notes from Sotheby's." It will contain in one alphabet as many of the more important notes which have appeared during the past few years in Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge's book-sale-catalogues as can be included in a volume to sell at one guinea. The titles will be abbreviated to the utmost possible extent, except in the case of works not recorded in Lowndes and Brunet, and no notes from either of those publications will be included, as they are already available. The date of the sale in which the entry occurred will be supplied. If the volume should be successful it will be followed by similar volumes at intervals to be determined by the sufficiency of material. Sale-satalogues contain much information of considerable value to booksellers if only it can be reproduced in such a form as to be immediately accessible, without the loss of time involved by tedious search. Every dealer of experience is aware that in the majority of cases the addition of a good note to a catalogue-description is the means of selling a scarce book.

YONKERS, N. Y.—William Wesley New has acquired an interest in the Warburton Avenue Bookstore, which will continue along the same lines as heretofore under the name of The W. Palmer East Co., Warburton Avenue Bookstore.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE hearing of evidence in the suit of Macy against the American Publishers' Association and the American Booksellers' Association was concluded on May 23. The briefs of both parties will be handed in on June 13, and a verdict will very likely not be given until the fall.

BRENTANO's will publish shortly a new book of plays by Bernard Shaw, entitled, from the leading one, "John Bull's Other Island."

T. J. MCBRIDE & SON, New York City, will publish on the 7th inst. "The Midnight Guest," a stirring detective story, by Fred M. White.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. announce that, owing to some delay in manufacture, "Some Unpublished Correspondence of David Garrick" will not be published until the fall.

A. S. BARNES & Co., owing to the unexpectedly large demand for Joseph C. Lincoln's new book, "The 'Old Home House,'" have been obliged to delay its publication until June 4.

DUFFIELD & COMPANY have issued a new edition, in two volumes, of Lewis Melville's "Life of Thackeray," containing portraits, facsimiles, etc. This is the only comprehensive biography of Thackeray ever written.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just published the latest work of the Rev. H. Mortimer Luckock, D.D., Dean of Litchfield, the subject being "The Eucharistic Sacrifice and Intercession for the Departed."

J. F. MEEHAN, the well-known bookseller in Bath, Eng., has added to his sketches of "Famous Buildings of Bath and District," contributed to the Bristol Beacon, a sketch of Thomas Moore and his cottage at Sloperton.

A. C. MCCLURG & Co. wish it understood that they are not the publishers of "Chicago Traction: a history legislative and political," by Samuel Wilber Norton, member of the Chicago bar. The book is only for sale in their retail department.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just ready De Morgan's new novel, "Alice-for-Short," which promises to be a rare treat; also, "Roy and Ray in Mexico," by Mary W. Plummer, described as a sort of young folks' Baedeker to Mexico, with maps and pictures.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have in preparation "The Memoirs of Ristori," translated by Signor Mantellini, which, the translator, to avoid confusion with the book on Mme. Ristori published by Roberts Brothers in 1888, points out is a new book in its English form.

THE MORGAN SHEPARD COMPANY announce "A Day-Dreamer's Harvest," by Henry Byron. This is a volume of meditations which, it is hoped, will attract thoughtful readers by the dignity and sweetness of its thought, and by the literary charm and beauty of expression.

By an error in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of May 13 "The World's Commercial Products," by Freeman and Chandler, is among the American announcements of Isaac Pitman & Sons. The book will be published in this country this fall by the Trade Department of Ginn & Company.

JACQUES GEVERS & Co., 70 Rue St. Jean, Antwerp, Belgium, has published a "Dictionnaire des brevets," (a dictionary of patents,) grouping under 3000 classes all the patents granted in Belgium from 1830 to 1907, prepared by Jacques Gevers. The price of the pamphlet, which is of interest to all inventors, is ten cents.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co. will bring out shortly a new story by Tom Gallon, entitled "Tinman," the subject of which is the deliberate murder of a woman's slanderer and the re-enactment of the crime, twenty years later, for the sake of her daughter. They also announce a volume of epigrams by Father Tabb, entitled "Quips and Quiddits—Ques for the Quirious," with pen and ink drawings by Copeland.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS, (Henry Frowde,) has arranged with George Allen to include in the World's Classics the new editions of some of Ruskin's earlier works which he is now about to publish. The World's Classics will also contain "Joseph and His Brethren," by Charles Wells, the friend of Keats, with Swinburne's prefatory note, which has long been out of print, and a biography of the poet by Watts Dunton.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR Co. will issue shortly a volume by the Honorable John Bigelow, entitled "Peace Given as the World Giveth, or, the Portsmouth Treaty and its First Year's Fruits." Its purpose is to furnish the evidence that thousands more of lives and millions more of property have been destroyed during the first year of that peace than could have been anticipated had the war continued until now. The evidence he produces is appalling.

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY, Philadelphia, have just carefully revised to date their "Interest Tables," which, with their numerous revisions, have been an authority for twenty years. The book this year includes with the tables of interest on any amount from $1 to $10,000, compiled by John E. Coffin, a permanent time-table, tables of values of foreign money, the interest laws of all States, rates of postage, business forms and business laws for daily use.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have brought out a new edition of Baedeker's "Canada," which has been so enlarged and revised that it is practically a new book. The book now contains 331 pages, with thirteen maps and twelve plans. The author, J. F. Muirhead, has incorporated an article by J. G. Bourinot on the "Constitution of Canada," another by C. M. Dawson on "Canada's Geographical and Geological Aspects," and another by E. T. D. Chambers and W. H. Fuller on "Sports and Pastimes." The guide is also furnished with a bibliography.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have been obliged to postpone until the fall the publication of "Poems of Wordsworth," selected by Stopford A. Brooke; "Dutch and Flemish Furniture," by Esther Singleton, the elaborate preparation of which is causing delay; "The Wagner Stories," by Filson Young—in view of the promise of a greater season of German opera this book is to be brought out in more elaborate form—and "Pinafore Palace," an anthology of children's nursery rhymes, edited by Kate Douglas Wiggin—because it is to be run serially in The Ladies' Home Journal.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on June 6 "A Woman's War," by Warwick Deeping, a brilliant story of the rivalry of two women, married to rival doctors of the small English town of Roxton, England; "The Talking Woman," by May Isabel Fisk, author of "Monologues," who has again produced a book full of bubbling humor, peculiarly adapted for parlor entertainments and private theatricals; and "Bud," by Neil Munro, which pictures a young typical Chicago girl set down in a typical old-fashioned Scottish village. Loving family life is depicted, enlivened by quaint, wholly unexpected touches of humor.

SINCE their disastrous fire of 1899, which destroyed all the copies of their Foreign Classics for English Readers, the J. B. Lippincott Company have been entirely out of these volumes. It will therefore be of interest to learn that they have just published new editions of the fifteen volumes of this series of popular handbooks dealing with famous French, Spanish, German and Italian writers, edited by the late Mrs. Oliphant. The volumes in the series are Rousseau, Goethe, Petrarch, Montaigne, Voltaire, Molière, Rabelais, Pascal, Tasso, Calderon, Cervantes, Saint Simon, La Fontaine, Corneille and Racine, Madame de Sévigné.

BURROUGHS WELLCOME & Co., 45 Lafayette Street, New York City, have just brought out "Wellcome's Photographic Exposure Record and Diary," which not only gives a clear explanation of the principles which underlie correct exposure, but puts its precepts into practice in a simple way by providing a mechanical calculator which indicates correct exposure by turning one scale once. The book is a compact compendium of photographic information. In addition, it provides a pocket note-book, a diary and ruled pages for systematically recording exposures in the field or at home. The retail price is 50 cents.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just brought out "Saint George, Champion of Christendom and Patron Saint of England," by E. O. Gordon, illustrated; "The Outlook in Ireland: The Case for Devolution and Conciliation," by the Earl of Dunraven; also, "A Guide to the Paintings in the Florentine Galleries: The Uffizi, The Pitti, The Accademie," by Maud Cruttwell, illustrated. To the New Universal Library is added: "The Iliad of Homer," in English blank verse, by the Earl of Derby, and a "Smaller History of Greece," by Sir William Smith, LL.D. There is added to The English Library "Some Curios from a Word-Collector's Cabinet," by A. Smyth Palmer, D.D.

THE ST. ANDREWS SOCIETY OF PHILADELPHIA, the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and the North Carolina Historical Association, will publish in the fall to subscribers a volume commemorative of James Wilson, (1742-1798,) signer of the Declaration of Independence, stalwart Nationalist in the Continental Congress, leader in the United States Constitutional Convention and Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States on its establishment, edited by Lucien Hugh Alexander, of the Philadelphia Bar, with an introduction by the Rt. Hon. James Bryce, the British Ambassador to America. The volume will be published at cost, possibly at $2, but in no event in excess of $2.90.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just brought out a new book by Clarence Hawkes, well known for his attractive books for children on the small furred and feathered folk of field and woodland. The book is entitled "Tenants of the Trees," and contains delightful accounts of the birds and small creatures who dwell in the forest. Louis Rhead has furnished the illustrations, four of which are in color. They will publish this month Mrs. Russel's "A Woman's Journey Through the Philippines," account of the Burnside cable-laying voyage through the archipelago in 1900. The book describes the peculiarities of the various tribes and the general characteristics of the people based upon intimate knowledge and operation. The volume will be adequately illustrated.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have in preparation a new book by Dr. E. A. Steiner, author of "On the Trail of the Immigrant." In the new book, to be entitled "The Mediator," Dr. Steiner will tell of an immigrant, a sensitive, educated Jew, formally trained as a Roman priest and driven out of Russia. He is thrown at first with his rough fellow immigrants, and in America meets with all its levelling experiences, and turns out a good citizen. It seems that the author has had biographical inspiration, for he himself is a Jew by birth, was educated for the Roman Church, but is now a Congregationalist, and he came to this country twenty-five years ago as an immigrant. He is now a professor in the Iowa State University, and an outside lecturer. They have also in hand a story for boys by Dillon Wallace, the companion explorer with the unfortunate Leonidas Hubbard, who lost his life in exploring Labrador. The book will be entitled "Ungara Bob," and tells the adventures of a boy trapping for the Hudson Bay Company.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY have just brought out a biography of Ellen Terry, by Christopher St. John, with a complete chronological list of parts played by this famous actress from April, 1856, to September, 1906, and sixteen full-page pictures from paintings and photographs; a new edition of "Sappho," memoir, text, selected renderings and a literal translation by Henry Thornton Wharton; also, "The Royal Scottish Academy," the extra number of the International Studio, in which the characteristic work of this remarkable school is presented in a series of forty color plates. They will publish at once a special number of the International Studio, devoted to the brothers Maris—James, Matthew and William. James is the leader of the Modern Dutch School of Landscape Painting, and his brothers have also done remarkable work, here artistically reproduced with facsimile colors, and letterpress from the pen of Croal Thompson. They have also ready M. P. Willcocks's new novel, entitled "The Wingless Victory," which has already established enduring popularity in London.

HILLS & HAFELY Co., 27 East Twenty-second Street, New York City, are marketing an attractive novelty—the Della Robbia Plaques—in the shape of substantial papier maché plaques that may either be hung on the wall from a ring provided for the purpose or stood on the mantel or other shelf, a movable rest being attached to each plaque. The designs are gelatine print reproductions of the celebrated plaques of Andrea and Luca della Robbia, the backgrounds being filled in by hand in facsimile of the original pieces. The subjects selected are: two portions of the Cantoria by Luca della Robbia in the Museum of S. Maria del Fiore in Florence; The Madonna with the Infant Christ and Angels, the Virgin Adoring the Infant Christ, The Madonna with the Infant Christ and Angels, all by Luca della Robbia, in the National Museum in Florence. The subjects selected from the plaques by Andrea della Robbia are The Virgin and Child, and The Virgin adoring the Infant Christ, in the National Museum in Florence; The Nativity, in a convent in Siena, and The Innocent Children, two charming medallions on the wall of the Children's Hospital in Florence. Each plaque is neatly boxed and is appropriate as gift, souvenir or greeting card.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have just published "The Making of English Literature," by William H. Crawshaw, professor of English literature in Colgate University. It is intended not only for college courses, but for the general reader in search of the story of English books and their writers from the earliest times, seen as "expressions of human experience in the past and of human aspiration for the future." The forces of Paganism, Christianity, romance, classicism and others of human endeavor are explained in their influence upon literature, stress being laid upon the personality, the individual genius, which has always risen above these environments. The several forms of literary creation, prose, ballad, drama, lyric, essay and novel are explained and apportioned, each to the time of its inception. The book is illustrated with facsimiles of manuscripts and pictures of persons and places of literary importance, and the unity of the literary narrative is preserved by placing in the appendix all suggestions as to courses of study, bibliographies, outlines and the like. They have also brought out a "Source Book of Greek History," by Frederick Morrow Fling, professor of Greek history in the University of Nebraska. The book is designed to supplement the customary course of study of Greek in schools and colleges, by giving, in the words of eminent Greek writers, descriptions and discussions of matters of importance which held the minds of the ancients. These combine history and literature, and are followed by questions on them which are designed to lead the student to discover for himself the connection of events, the action of cause and effect, and the value of the evidence at hand. The book is illustrated with reproductions from photographs, and biographies of the authors quoted are given in the appendix.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY announce a volume entitled "Magda, Queen of Sheba," translated into French from the original Gheze, the language of the Ethiopian priests, by Hughes Le Roux, member of the Rouen Academe de Belles-lettres, and from the French into English by Mrs. John Van Vorst, with an introduction especially prepared for this edition by Hughes Le Roux. This curious story forms part of an ancient manuscript, entitled "The Glory of the Kings," in which is contained the genealogy of the Ethiopian kings from the beginning of their known history. No full translation of "Magda" has ever before been made into any European language, the nearest approach being a few chapters which, a few years ago, were put into Latin by a German scholar. During the defeat of King Theodore by the English at Magdala, about fifty years ago, this manuscript was found among Theodore's personal effects after his death by suicide. It was then taken to London and deposited in the British Museum, but later was restored to the successor of Theodore, King John. M. Le Roux, while on a recent mission to the Abyssinian Court, was allowed to see the manuscript and make a translation of it into French. "Magda" is the story of the visit of the Queen of Sheba to King Solomon, and of the early life of their son, told in the form of fiction, but with an historical basis, the facts being those which have been believed in Abyssinia for many generations. Experts have given the opinion that the date of the original manuscript is probably somewhere in the fifth century of our era, and that some learned Abyssinian person, possessed of all the historical data, put them into this form under the influence of the literary culture of Byzantium. The publishers, for several months, through correspondence with Abyssinian experts in this country and Europe, have been engaged in an investigation of its origin and history. The volume, as now to be published, gives a detailed statement of its history, as prepared for this edition by M. Le Roux, the translator of the original work into French. A facsimile of a page of the Abyssinian manuscript will be reproduced on vellum as the frontispiece.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

TWO IMPORTANT BIOGRAPHIESFrederick Douglass

By BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, author of "Up from Slavery," etc. 12mo, cloth, with frontispiece of Douglass, $1.25 net.

From every point of view it is an excellent piece of work. It is remarkable because it gives with great frankness, great impartiality, an entire absence of bitterness of spirit, the views of both men respecting slavery, reconstruction, the political rights and duties of the Negro, and the relations between the races.

Judah P. Benjamin

By PIERCE BUTLER, Professor of English Literature at Tulane University. 12mo, cloth, with frontispiece of Benjamin. $1.25 net.

The first biography of a man who was noted first for his brilliant oratory when a member of the U. S. Senate, later achieved success as Secretary of State of the Confederacy during the Civil War, and finally gained remarkable distinction at the bar of England where he rose to the high position of Queen's Counsellor.

THREE IMPORTANT NEW PUBLICATIONSThe Real Australia

By A. J. BUCHANAN. 12mo, cloth, $1.50 net.

In a vivid series of pen pictures the whole Life of the Island Continent is made to pass before the reader. We see the people in their activities—social, political, domestic. We also see them in their recreations—sporting, smoking, flirting. From first to last the human interest is strong.

Shakespeare Studied in Six Plays

By the Hon. ALBERT S. G. CANNING. 8vo, cloth, gilt, $4.00 net.

The book expounds for the general reader the leading ideas of some of Shakespeare's dramas. The plays dealt with are Othello, Macbeth, King John, Richard II., Henry IV., and the Merry Wives of Windsor.

Society in the Country House

Anecdotal records of Six Centuries, by T. H. S. ESCOTT. 8vo, cloth, $4.00 net.

It traces the Country House Life of English Society in its connection with the National Movements—social, political, philanthropic, artistic and literary, from the country gentlemen of the 15th Century to the hostesses of to-day.

TWO GOOD JUVENILES FOR BOYSA Son of the Sea

A Sea Story for Boys, by FRANK T. BULLEN, author of "The Cruise of the Cachalot." Four colored illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

A Hero in Wolfskin

A story of the Goths and the early Roman Empire by TOM BEVAN. Seven full-page illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"The Degeneracy of Aristocracy"

Latest Book by W. A. STURDY

HIS PREVIOUS EFFORTS ARE:

|--|--------------------------------------|
| "Shaking the Apple Tree" (Isaac Didwin) | "Right and Wrong" "The Open Door" |
|--|--------------------------------------|

These works all treat of Democracy, Christian Unity, and the oppressive character of Aristocracy, with Suggestive Remedies for existing Social and Political Disturbances.

Comments of the Press

"Religion was always free and recognized by Moses, but the introduction of kings put an embargo upon the exercise of religious freedom, which continued in force until the United States duplicated the recognition of Moses. 'The Degeneracy of Aristocracy' is published as an appeal for the recognition of human justice."—Boston Herald.

"The progress of democracy, in its eternal struggle with the spirit and institution of aristocracy, is a favorite and fascinating topic to the American student of history. 'The Degeneracy of Aristocracy,' by W. A. Sturdy, undertakes to show by the retrospect of history that democracy is to be so totally triumphant that an already declining aristocracy will be entirely swept away."—Boston Globe.

"The book is, as the author states, 'an appeal for the recognition of human justice.' He not only outlines the problems but solutions as well. It would be preposterous to believe that all the author outlines will be accomplished in this generation at least, but the power of the book still remains. A careful reading will open such new lines of thought that the reader cannot fail to be impressed and instructed. Not the least charm of the book is the forceful epigrams of which Mr. Sturdy is master."—The Attleboro Daily Sun.

The book that everyone is praising!

THE END ^{OF} THE GAME

A human, pulsating story of American life to-day

By ARTHUR HORNBLOW

Author of the novel "The Lion and the Mouse"

(Taken from the play and now in its 70th thousand)

NEW YORK TIMES:

"A creditable piece of work. The resemblance of the story to the careers of certain men who have been much in the public eye is not to be denied. One pronounced good quality of the novel is that the author has not hesitated to bring the story to a tragic and logical conclusion. His descriptions of the terrors of modern journalism are not nearly so exaggerated as the reader will probably imagine. The story of the patient wife has a pathos and a realism that strike the keynote of sincerity."

THEN THERE ARE OTHERS

New York World:

"Mr. Hornblow has novelized the brain-stormy Pittsburg millionaire and a few other matters that make racy reading."

New York Evening Sun:

"If Mr. Hornblow's first book, 'The Lion and the Mouse,' was capitalized Oil on troubled waters, 'The End of the Game' is equally a study in Steel."

New York Globe:

"The 70,000 readers who enjoyed Mr. Hornblow's story 'The Lion and the Mouse' will have a similar treat in 'The End of the Game.'"

Savannah, Ga., News:

"An intensely interesting and capitally told story. Mr. Hornblow has something to say and knows how to say it."

Cleveland News:

"The author's pictures of New York and Pittsburg are worthy of a place beside the poetic prose of Whitman."

St. Louis Republic:

"A strong love story that will hold the attention of the women readers."

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY OFFICE

The Publishers' Weekly

Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly indexes, cumulated quarterly, news of interest concerning the book trade, lists of "Books Wanted," (an advertising feature which each subscriber can use without charge to the extent of 100 lines per year,) etc., etc. Subscription, $4.00 a year; to foreign countries, $5.00 a year.

The American Catalog, 1900-1905

Vol. I contains a five-year cumulation, Jan. 1, 1900-Jan. 1, 1905, giving in one alphabet, by author, title and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by this period. It also contains a directory of over 3800 publishers, with street addresses. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II or Supplementary volume gives the full-title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i.e., into five alphabets 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, bookdealers, and others as want the full material of The Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50. The set of two, $12.

Of the previous series of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE, quarto size, the earlier volumes are out of print. We have remaining a few copies of the volumes 1890-95 and 1895-1900, bound in half morocco, $15.00 each.

The Annual American Catalog

Contains in one alphabet a record of all books published during 1905, under author, title, subject and series entries; also under author's name an alphabetical list of the same titles with descriptive annotations from The Publishers' Weekly, etc. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

Same catalog for 1906 now ready.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists, fully indexed, at the end of the volume. Indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of books. Large 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Index to the Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1902, out of print.

The Supplementary Index, 1903-1904, 500 pages, 8vo, cloth, with thumb index, $3.00. The alphabet in this volume is supplementary to the original Index of 1902.

The American Educational List

Contains a price-list of the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. (Published annually.) 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

Whitaker's Reference Catalogue of Current Literature, 1906. (London, J. Whitaker & Sons.)

(The trade price-lists of all the British publishers.) 2 vols., half leather binding, $5.00.

Official Organ of the American Library Association. Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription $4.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 35 cents. Price to Europe or other countries in the Union, 16s. a year; single numbers, 1s. 6d.

The Library Index to Periodicals and Current Events

Published monthly, with a quarterly cumulation (indexing the periodicals taken in most libraries, large and small). Subscription, $3.00 per year. Single monthly numbers, 25 cents; quarterly numbers, 50 cents each.

The Annual Library Index

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc., Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER and H. E. HAINES. (Published annually) 8vo, cloth, $3.50.

English Catalogue of Books (Annual)

Containing a complete list of all the books published in Great Britain and Ireland in the calendar year, with index to subjects. 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

English Catalogue of Books, 1901-1905

The record of these five years in one continuous alphabet. (Seventh volume of series.) 8vo, half morocco, $20.00.

Directory of Publishers

Contains names and addresses of 3876 firms and individuals who issued books in the U. S. from Jan. 1, 1900 to Jan. 1, 1905. (Reprinted from The American Catalog.) 8vo, leatherette, red edges, $1.00.

The Profession of Bookselling

A handbook of practical hints for the apprentice and bookseller. By A. GROWOLD, managing editor of The Publishers' Weekly, author of "A Bookseller's Library," "Three Centuries of English Booktrade Bibliography," etc. Parts 1 and 2. 8vo boards, each $2.00. (Concluding part in preparation.)

Publications of Societies

A provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary and other societies, from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Schedules nearly 1,000 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. 8vo, paper, $2.50.

State Publications

Sister Carrie

By

THEODORE DREISER

SISTER CARRIE IS THE MOST
REALISTIC NOVEL OF OUR TIMES

We believe that Theodore Dreiser has written one of the most remarkable novels in literature, AND WE predict a record breaking sale

Colored Illustrations. 12mo. Cloth.
Price, $1.50

IS NOW READY

"'Sister Carrie' is an extraordinarily interesting book, and the reading of it kept me up nearly all night, because I simply couldn't put it aside."
—Harry Thurston Peck

"I was deeply impressed with the power and the verity of this book, which I vastly admired. Here is hoping you will do many books as good as 'Sister Carrie.'"
—Hamlin Garland

"I consider 'Sister Carrie' one of the most powerful delineations of American lower class city life. It is worthy of Zola, even of Balzac."
—Albert Bigelow Paine

"A book which gripped the present writer with a force unequalled by any other American novel that has appeared within five years. There is more tonic value in it than a whole shelf full of sermons."
—Frederic Taber Cooper, in The May Bookman

"It is by far the greatest American novel of recent years."
—Morgan Robertson,
author of "Sinful Peck"

"I believe there is a great big public waiting to know of this book."

Nearly five years ago we were invited to become associated with those Bible publishers who are governed by an agreement to maintain high prices. We refused to do so. The wisdom of our refusal, and its importance to booksellers, becomes apparent when at this time we are able to say that our Bible business is entirely satisfactory, and Bibles of equal quality to ours cannot be purchased elsewhere at prices less than from 25 to 50 per cent. more than we ask for them. JUST THINK THIS OVER.

Any of our books can be purchased of us direct or of your jobber if more convenient to you. Don't pay Dictionary Trust or Bible Combination prices for Dictionaries or Bibles. Buy our books and make more money.
